Petrification in Western North Carolina.

The Carolinas beat all sections of the country for petrified specimens, but North Carolina beais her sister. There were Greeks before Agamemnon and there were petrifactions in North Caroina before the mortal remains of the patrified gentleman of the Saluda river country of South Carolina were ever heard of. A judge of the Superior Court of this State, who has lately been riding the thirteer th circuit, sends Tan Observer a story which bears on the general subject. Some years ago information was recaived by the citizens of Boston that there was a considerable deposit of petit ction in Wyoming, and the manaers of the museum in Boston sent a man to gather up some to deposit in the museum as curiosities, and as Joe Bowers says, when he got to that country he was exploring a certain creek, member the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. looking for petrifactions, when he met up with a denizen of that region, who, Binghampton, N.
